

The Indiana State law covering the "no call list" has been a huge success in my opinion. The number of calls to our home from telemarketers has dropped dramatically.....15-20 per week to now 1 or 2 per month. I believe the public would suffer from a federal law. The Indiana Attorney General's office has proven quite capable in its handling of this problem as demonstrated by the immediate results after Jan 1st, 2001.
